

Straight From the Heart

By Cary Efur, RMP®

I joined NARPM at the 2004 Leadership Symposium in Austin. That year the 2003 president Chris Hermanski passed the torch to Andrea Caldwell. I don't remember what Andrea said at the dinner speech she gave that night, but I do remember the command she took at the podium. I was inspired, enamored by her charm and from that moment engaged with NARPM.

The NARPM influence has channeled my career to new heights. Many people in NARPM have positively impacted my life since 2004. I could only begin and never end in naming the people and telling you all that has happened as a result of NARPM membership. However, the story would surely begin and end with the absolutely fabulous relationships with people I have met and become friends with along the way.

I would not be in business for myself if it were not for the confidence I gained from being a part of NARPM. If I were though, I would surely be in trouble. The knowledge received from being a part of a group of professionals who care about the industry of property management and me, is beyond the extraordinary.
